

Remember
Kettle's Yard
in your will

a lasting contribution

Kettle's Yard owes a huge debt of gratitude to all those who have supported us with a gift in their will. We have been fortunate enough to receive bequests from supporters and Friends throughout our history. These gifts have allowed us to continue to grow and introduce new audiences to the visual arts and music.

*“I hope that future generations
will still find a home,
a welcome, a refuge
of peace and order, of visual arts and
of music”*

Jim Ede in 'A Way of Life'

Jim Ede, the founder of Kettle's Yard, left an endowment to support our running costs but this is no longer sufficient for our extensive programme. We are thankful for the support of the University of Cambridge and Arts Council England but know that we must lay strong foundations to secure our future.

A legacy gift to Kettle's Yard contributes to our long-term sustainability. It will allow us to continue to flourish, delighting successive generations with the best of modern and contemporary art, music and learning, as well as to care for the house and collection.

left: Jim Ede, founder of Kettle's Yard, with David Peace's Sanctuary Lamp
cover: Kettle's Yard house extension

your legacy

A legacy for the “general purposes of Kettle’s Yard” is usually the most beneficial way of supporting the organisation, giving us the flexibility to use your gift in the most effective way. However, if you would prefer to support a particular aspect of our work, please do get in touch so we can discuss how you would like your contribution to be acknowledged.

It is simple to include a legacy to Kettle’s Yard, either at the time of making your will with your solicitor or at a later date by completing a Codicil to an existing will (Codicil enclosed).

We strongly recommend that you seek legal advice when preparing your will.

The Chroma Ensemble rehearsing in the house

“My life has been greatly enriched by concerts, exhibitions and people at Kettle’s Yard”

Jane Gooch, Kettle’s Yard supporter

A talk about the Christopher Wood exhibition in the gallery

A school group visiting the house

tax benefits

Kettle's Yard is an institution of the University of Cambridge. The University of Cambridge is an exempt charity and is recognised by HM Revenue & Customs as having charitable status for all UK tax purposes. Bequests or legacies may be made to Kettle's Yard free of UK Inheritance Tax and Capital Gains Tax.

If you find yourself a beneficiary of a will, you can transfer all or part of your inheritance to Kettle's Yard under a Deed of Variation. Amounts transferred are free of Inheritance Tax.

Student drawing in the house

Jim Ede's bathroom with works by Henri Gaudier-Brzeska, William Congdon and Ben Nicholson

“In Cambridge the inspired vision of one man, Jim Ede, left to the University and the country one of the most remarkable and important small galleries of twentieth century art, known as Kettle’s Yard. Jim Ede’s life and work were dedicated to the communication of artistic values to the public, particularly to the young undergraduates of the University, in a way that is not didactic but almost a means of spiritual communication.”

Colin Amery,

Palaces of Art, Dulwich Picture Gallery

and finally

‘A profoundly original concept – unlike any public museum anywhere – it remains a touchstone’

Sir Alan Bowness,

foreword to the second edition of Jim Ede’s ‘A Way of Life’.

If you would like any further information or you would like to discuss your legacy please contact:

Development Department

Kettle’s Yard, Castle Street, Cambridge CB3 0AQ

email: development@kettlesyard.cam.ac.uk

telephone: 01223 748100

www.kettlesyard.co.uk/supporters

KETTLE’S YARD

LOTTERY FUNDED

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE
MUSEUMS & BOTANIC GARDEN

